Art in Conversation with Architecture

TEJAS MODAK

The creative forms of literature and architecture appear to be distinct, one constructing a world on the page, the other producing the world in which we live.

In architecture and design, creating narratives can equate to conceptualising stories in writing, while the aspect of structures, aesthetics, and redesigning can correspond to the usage of words and phrases, expressions, and editing. But how does it actually work? How do we decode it?

Does he think graphically and describe it in words when he's writing? Does he finish a script in one go? What does language mean to him? Which person has his adulation? We weave through the creative moments in Tejas Modak's life in this candid conversation.

Art in Conversation with Architecture

The core characteristics of the Arts and Crafts are a belief in craftsmanship which stresses the inherent beauty of the material, the importance of nature as inspiration, and the value of simplicity, utility, and beauty. It largely relates to the Architecture in many ways.

"I am always in the role of a painter. I have a filter and see objects like lines and structure", says Pune-based artist Raju Sutar who has experimented with a spectrum of mediums from oils to acrylic, watercolours, tempera, dry pastels, pencil and ink over the years. Also involved in the revival of lost crafts.

His forte is to convert expressions into visual vocabulary and conceptualize creative projects.

Let's investigate the same through this dialogue.

ENVIRONMENTS FOR HEALING

Healthcare environment encompass the entire gamut of services from individual practices, polyclinics, single specially to multispeciality hospitals visits to these healthcare environments are the least looked forward to events and avoided as far as possible.

They are stressful not only for the patients but also for the family and staff or the healthcare providers.

Healthcare environments are symbols of society as they are designed through discussion amongst various actors bringing in their own set of priorities. For the designers, it symbolizes an edifice for healthcare delivery, whereas the healthcare providers look at it as a place of healing. The Joint Commission (2008) report mentions that hospital design trends keep changing depending on various factors like economics, technology, demographics etc. Irrespective of this, healthcare environments as places of healing for patients and comfortable work environments for healthcare providers remain common
