Feedback System at Dr. Bhanuben Nanavati College of Architecture, Pune

At BNCA, feedbacks are taken periodically for various aspects. Feedbacks are taken from various stakeholders too. The purpose of the feedback is varied. The faculty feedback is taken regarding the curriculum as they have experiences to share regarding its actual implementation. Feedback regarding the curriculum is also taken from the students, our alumni and the professionals who employ our students for internships. This feedback helps to enhance the teaching learning system for effective delivery of the curriculum.

Feedback is also sought from students, parents, alumni as well as staff regarding the infrastructure and facilities provided by the institute and their satisfaction with the same is noted.

Students: Feedback is taken at the end of each semester about their learning experience which is shared with the faculty.

Faculty: Faculty gives their feedback on the teaching learning experience, their co-faculty and issues faced. This feedback is in the form of group discussions. The individual faculty feedback is first discussed with the respective head of departments. This feedback is then discussed with the Principal, IQAC coordinator and academic coordinator for further action. The feedback is considered while planning the next year.

Professionals: Various industry professionals visit the institute for guest lectures or juries etc. Their feedback is sought to understand the students learning as well as the appropriateness of the curriculum.

Feedback on Syllabus

BNCA is an affiliated institute (Savitribai Phule Pune University) and thus has no direct control over the preparation of the syllabus. We follow the syllabus prescribed by the university. However, feedback regarding the syllabus is taken from various stakeholders like faculty, professionals, employers, alumni etc. Suggestions received are sent to the Board of Studies (Architecture), SPPU for consideration during preparation of the new syllabus.

Our principal Dr. Anurag Kashyap as well as the following faculty are members of BOS and through them this feedback reaches the Chairman and the syllabus review committee. The BOS members in the last term (2019-2022) were Dr. Anurag Kashyap, Dr. Shubhada Kamlapurkar, Dr. Vasudha Gokhale and Dr. Sujata Karve. These members were also a part of the syllabus review and syllabus preparation committee for the 2019 syllabus. Currently Dr. Anurag Kashyap, Dr. Sharvey Dhongde, Dr. Swati Sahasrabudhe and Dr. Sujata Karve are members of BOS (2023-2027) and involved actively in the review and preparation of the new syllabus. Dr. Sharvey Dhongde is the coordinator of the syllabus review committee.

Since the syllabus for B. Arch is revised after 5 years and that of M. Arch after 2 years, feedback is sought once or twice during this period. The current feedback taken is for the 2019 syllabus which is due to undergo revision.

The diagram below summarises the feedback system at Dr. Bhanuben Nanavati College of Architecture for Women, Pune.

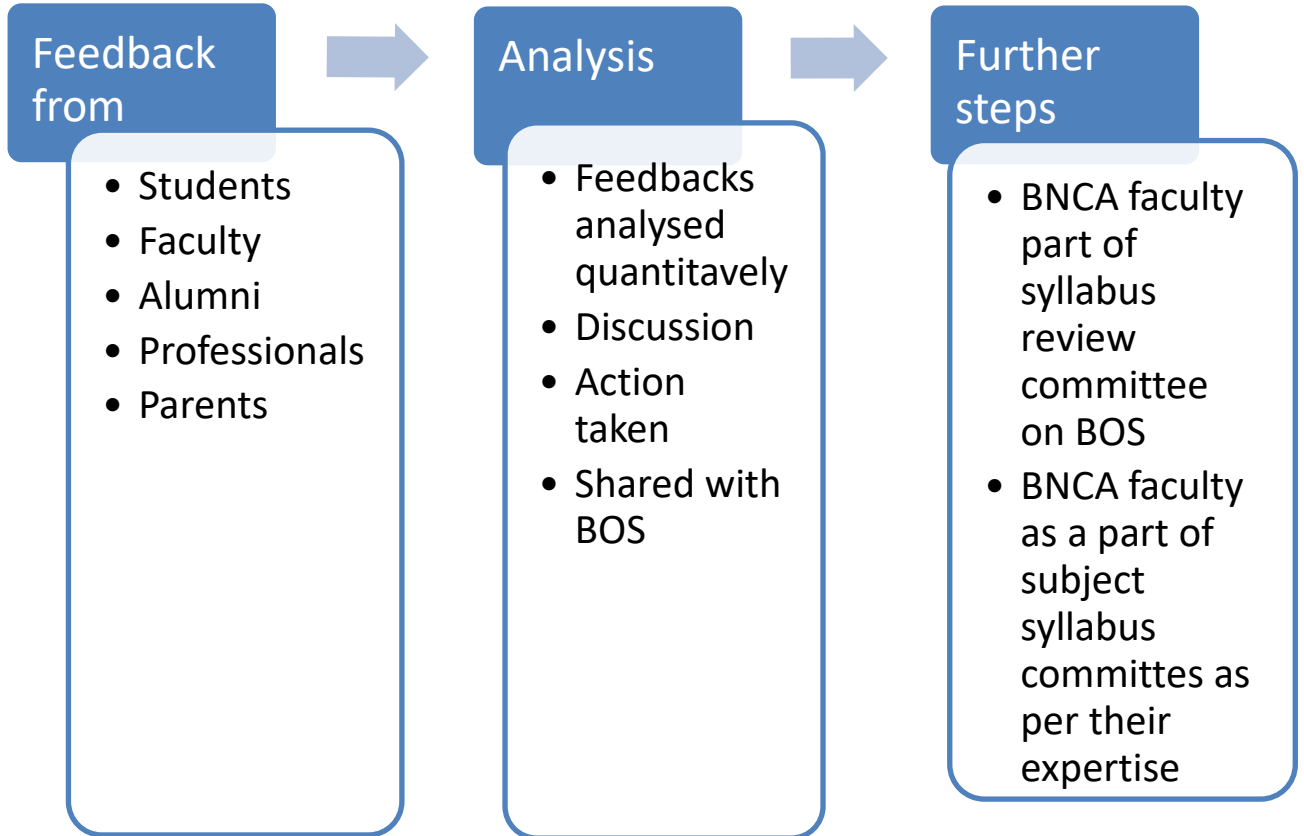

Fig. 1: Feedback system at Dr. Bhanuben Nanavati College of Architecture for Women, Pune.

The feedback is taken online on specifically designed google forms which have formats to address the requirement. Sample of the feedback are attached as Annexure 1 at the end of the report.

The BOS also invites faculty of the relevant subject for meetings for their technical inputs as well as inputs regarding feasibility of implementation. Minutes of meeting are also attached herewith as Annexure 2.

Course curriculum allows for interpretation and is able to be customised as per the philosophy of the institute.

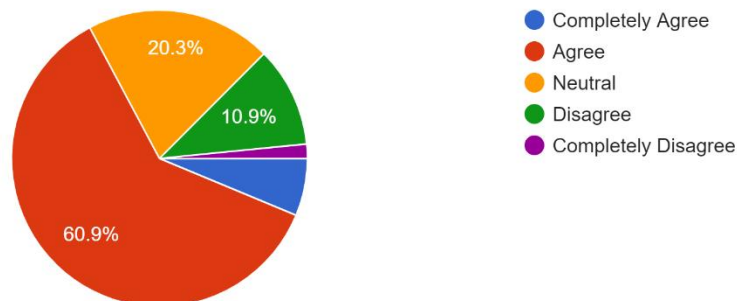

64 responses

Though 80% are satisfied with outcomes mentioned in the syllabus, only 60% think that the syllabus is open to interpretation and able to be customised as per the institutes philosophy.

The curriculum has a good balance between theory and study-based learning.

64 responses

Majority of the faculty also agree that there is good balance between theory and studio or field based learning.

Major findings that could be interpreted from the feedback were as follows:

1. Landscape architecture subject syllabus is too vast to be covered in one single semester
2. 4th year syllabus is quite precise but the other years syllabus calls for upgradation

3. First year AGD can be revised. It could be a mix of previous and new syllabus
4. There should be written examination for Urban Studies subject
5. The duration given for AGD -Architectural Graphics and Drawing syllabus is reduced to 1 year which is insufficient in terms of practice time that is required for student in order to understand and apply it in other subjects. Even time management in completion of drawing is very basic that student need to learn . If AGD is distributed to 4 semesters it can help student to learn drawing language appropriately. This duration shall be utilized to develop skills of sketching and drafting.

Some of the Suggestions regarding the curriculum are as follows:

1. More hands-on learning to be incorporated
2. A leaning towards the practical side of architecture will be more suitable for helping students join the profession.
3. Curriculum could focus more on formative/progressive assessment than term end evaluation
4. It needs to be now updated with latest technics and methodology and to be more focused on Architectural scope only.
5. Curriculum should test practical applications, encourage research-based learning, promote hands on training
6. To orient the students a little more towards exposure of market study.
7. The curriculum is giving only introduction to topics, in depth study of topics is missing as many subjects don't have examination that leads to ignorance by students
8. The curriculum is less suited for the current trends and practices in the professional industry.
9. Curriculum should offer more flexibility for defining outcome of the Design based subjects. It should also offer flexibility for swapping the design curriculum of semesters of one academic year.

Overall, the feedback was positive, and the faculty found the syllabus to be robust and able to address the needs of the current profession to a large extent. With a few modifications and more room for customisation, the ever-changing professional requirements could possibly be addressed.

Feedback from students regarding curriculum

Feedback of the semester is taken from the students regarding the teaching learning process and the challenges they face academically. Some common points that have come up during discussions are as follows:

All the subjects are done extensively irrespective of the credits and thus sometimes subjects like design which have the maximum credits gets compromised.

Many students like the site visits, settlement study tours etc. which give them field experiences.

Feedback from Alumni regarding the curriculum

Feedback from alumni was also taken as they had recently undergone studies and joined the profession. Mentioned below are some of the salient features of the feedback:

Nearly 76% of the alumni thought that the current syllabus could be improved to make it more market ready.

Most of them also thought that the syllabus helps to mould the students and thus needs some revision

When asked what subjects they would like to see added to the curriculum the following suggestions were given.

- More practical learning and oriented subjects
- Licensing process and structural design
- Subjects related to social sciences, business management etc.
- Learning of software in more detail

The alumni also made suggestions regarding subjects which needed content upgradation. Some of them were building technology, working drawing, design etc.

The alumni were in agreement though that the syllabus gave them a good foundation to start their professional careers.

Feedback from Employers / Professionals regarding the curriculum

Every year the entire 4th year of B. Arch and students of M. Arch have to undertake professional training or internship for a stipulated time. As employers of our students who experience academia through them, feedback was taken from these professionals regarding the students' technical skills as well as soft skills.

98% of the employers were satisfied with BNCA and the curriculum run.

Though satisfied overall, the feedback also mentioned that subjects like Working drawing need to have real world applications.

90% of the employers also mentioned that overall, the syllabus was satisfactory. The suggestion was to give more emphasis on teaching subjects like building services, survey analysis which are required extensively in the profession.

In terms of suggestions for improvement most mentioned that the time duration of internship should be increased to 6 months (currently 4 months) giving more emphasis on practical training.

Most of the employers also mentioned that they would be happy to employ students from BNCA in the future too as well as recommend them to other future employers.

Feedback from Parents

The parents are invited to various academic exhibitions held by their wards. They are also invited to give their feedback on the work done. Many of the parents may not have a background of architecture, so they are not asked directly about the curriculum. But their overall feedback was that the work output was interesting and they are ready to face challenges in the profession.

Action Plan at Institutional Level

Till the next syllabus is prepared and implemented, an action plan to implement the current syllabus more effectively and considering the feedback received was put in place. Some of the points are mentioned below.

1. The program outcomes for subjects like climatology, EVS, history etc. which have an extensive syllabus, but limited time and credits have been designed such that the focus is on understanding the basic concepts.
2. Subjects like architectural design and urban studies in the fourth year have been integrated so that common sites and issues are handled. The urban studies studio focusses on initial research and understanding which can then be implemented as design in the architectural design studio.
3. The common from all stakeholders emphasized on practical learning. This was incorporated by introducing more hands-on learning assignments in theory subjects like structures, history etc. In the subject of structures, the students prepared cement mixes and then used the same to prepare some objects. In history, measure drawing on field is taken up to understand the historical structures.
4. As the feedback from students included learning more software, various value-added courses were introduced. Software like grasshopper was taught as a value-added course which the students could then use for design.
5. Other than site visits and market surveys, students are encouraged to attend various construction related expos and exhibitions to interact with material manufacturers. This also gives them an idea about current market trends, new materials introduced etc.

Following are some of the comments received.

Some toilets need to be revamped!

Good.

Wireless mics and speakers in each classroom required. Along with Digital board blackboard/whiteboard is a must in each classroom

Very well-maintained infrastructure, inspirational and encouraging approach for activities.

Excellent infrastructure & facilities

BNCA has the most clean and best infrastructure. The environment of the college is supportive, sensitive and encouraging.

Just a suggestion .. During break hrs would like some sort of an arrangement for visiting teaching faculty as it gets extremely crowded to place orders as well as find a place to sit.
