BLOCK PRINTING:

Block printing is the process of printing patterns by means of engraved wooden blocks. Fine details are carved out of wood and powder paint is applied to the block and is stamped of the cloth, when finished it gives the appearance of flat relief print.

We made handkerchief samples, tablecloth and t-shirt. Tools such as fabric paints, permanent paint, roller sponge, brushes and wooden blocks were provided to us. The wooden blocks included imprints like flowers, elephants, birds and some abstract design intricately carved by the students of MNVTI.

TIE DYE:

Tie- dye is a dyeing technique which consists of folding, twisting, pleating or crumpling fabric before binding with string or rubber bands followed by the application of dyes. The technique is characterised by use of bright saturated primary colours and bold patterns.

Tie-dye is done in several patterns out of which patterns such as Lehriya, Rochie, Accordial fold, bandhani were taught to us by making small handkerchief samples and a scarf. It was a 10 week course conducted by MNVTI.

REPORT- Sketch-Up Training

COURSE NAME: Sketchup Training

COURSE CODE: BNCA_202223_03

COURSE CO-ORDINATOR: Mr. Umesh Chavan, Head IT, BNCA

NAME OF THE RESOURCE PERSON: Mr. Jitendra Golsangi, Ar. Sayali Kulkarni, Ar. Devaprasad

RESOURCE PERSON POST AND ORGANIZATION: Director, Aura Software, Assistant Professor, BNCA,
Associate Professor, BNCA

DATES: 18/07/22 to 22/07/2022

TIMING: 3.00pm to 6.00pm

VENUE: Online Mode

STUDENTS ATTENDED (YEAR/MIX): 5th Year B. Arch Students

STUDENT NUMBER: 154

BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRAM:

Duration in Hours: 30 hrs including assessment.

Course Objectives:

- Understand the latest features in SketchUp Studio and their practical applications.
- Explore the integration of AR/VR tools for immersive design experiences.
- Learn time-saving tips, tricks, and workflows to enhance efficiency.

How does this course add value to the students' learning?

Students gain familiarity with the latest tools and features, enabling them to work more efficiently and stay updated with industry trends.

Learning shortcuts, efficient navigation, and advanced plugins enables students to save time and focus on creativity.

Exposure to AR/VR enhances spatial understanding and creativity. Students learn to visualize their designs immersively, fostering innovative approaches to problem-solving.

SCHEDULE WITH CURRICULUM DETAILS

Module 1: New Features in SketchUp Studio

- Overview of SketchUp Studio updates
 - Advanced modeling tools
 - Enhanced rendering features (e.g., V-Ray or Enscape integration)
 - Cloud collaboration using Trimble Connect
- Hands-on activity: Apply new features to model a small architectural project.

Module 2: AR and VR Integration

- Introduction to AR/VR capabilities in SketchUp Studio
 - Exporting models for AR/VR platforms
 - Using tools like SketchUp Viewer, Hololens, or Oculus for immersive presentations
- Designing for AR/VR: Best practices
- Activity: Create a virtual walkthrough of a 3D model and test it in an AR/VR environment.

Module 3: SketchUp Tips & Tricks

- Efficient navigation and shortcuts
- Advanced modeling techniques:
 - Working with plugins/extensions (e.g., Fredo6, Artisan)
 - Creating parametric designs using tools like Profile Builder
- Effective use of styles and layers for organization
- Best practices for rendering clean, presentation-ready models
- Activity: Solve a design problem using time-saving tools and techniques.

Module 4: Real-World Applications

- Industry case studies (architecture, interior design, urban planning, etc.)
- Group project: Develop a full 3D project using new features, AR/VR tools, and advanced tips

REPORT- Capacity Building Workshop on Grasshopper

COURSE NAME: CAPACITY BUILDING WORKSHOP ON GRASSHOPPER

COURSE CODE: BNCA_202223_04

BNCA CO-ORDINATOR: Prof. Dhanashree Deshpande

NAME OF THE RESOURCE PERSON: Prof. Dhanashree Deshpande and Prof. Supriya Dhamale

RESOURCE PERSON POST AND ORGANIZATION: Prof. Dhanashree Deshpande, Associate Professor, BNCA

DATES: 26.07.2022- 14.10.2022

TIMING: 3.00 pm-6.00 pm

VENUE: BNCA

STUDENTS ATTENDED (YEAR/MIX): B. Arch – 3rd year

STUDENT NUMBER: 12

BRIEF ABOUT THE PROGRAM:

The intent of the experiment, in this instance with undergraduate architecture design students who already have some familiarity with Rhinoceros 7.0 modelling processes, was to introduce a formal digital Design Thinking (methodology), as well as digital design thinking principles, methods, and tools.

The pedagogic design exercise is structured to assist students to understand, think and produce in three predetermined learning targets:

1. Architectural design problem-solving.
2. Parametric methods utilizing.
3. Computational environment handling.

ALLOTTED TIME

Timeframe: - A sustained training of 3 hours per week (Friday latter half) was imparted to the cohort of total of 12 students who voluntarily participated and chose to be part of the value-added course. All 12 students were imparted progressive skilling in tandem with the design studio progression.

The experimental studio was conducted by Ar. Dhanashree Sardeshpande and Ar. Supriya Dhamale as parametric experts.

The schedule for the grasshopper sessions was planned in tandem with the design studio It was understood that the schedule will have to be dynamic as the tutor team conducting the studio had no idea of the potential of students to handle computational complexity.

This team of students thus inducted as sample were the batch who had never physically been to college due to Covid. So that made this value-added course that was to feed in their design process a first-ever complex interface for the students.

The class of parametric models used as a base of the experiment is a hybrid model that involves the use of a particular class of models which are Formation models & Performance models (reference Oxman taxonomy)

INSTRUCTIONAL MISSION AND GOALS

The main instructional mission of the proposed pedagogic experiment was to advance students' knowledge and skills towards the following goals:

1. To introduce the architectural design tools offered by the computational environment.
2. To brainstorm and emphasize the newly emerged design methods made possible by the computational environment.
5. To explore parametric design tools in the undergraduate studio and to examine the generation of multiple formal expressions through these tools for architectural pedagogy.

Method of conduction of the experimental studio

The pedagogical experiment thus was planned in ways where the studio was additionally, informed and supplemented by a parametric course studio conducted every Friday between 3 to 5.30/6pm. This way it did not eclipse the conduction hours of design studio in the institute that is scheduled every Tuesday from 11.15 to 2.45 PM and Friday from 8.00 AM till 1.15 Pm

This value-added course was meant as an introductory course as a structured pedagogical effort to introduce aspects of computational thinking so that students understand the possibilities and practice it constructively.

Expected proficiency levels was set at the lowest level technically called a preliminary level in digital design where students were explained and demonstrations through precooked definitions (worked upon by the tutors)to work

- learning how the grasshopper algorithm is created and what it does: - Preliminary literacy, Teaching Precooked definitions through tutorials.

With the proficiency level established.The learning objectives of this experimental studio to teach Computational design methods were expressed as

Students will

- Learn fundamental computing concepts,
- Apply those concepts using a programming language in the context of design problems, to generate and evaluate design artefacts.
- Reflect upon the role of computing within their personal design process.

In support of these objectives, the course syllabus was designed to introduce computing topics in a manner that carefully builds complexity with each lesson. The experimental set up thus had a dedicated class that demonstrated the grasshopper logic through classes wherein definitions worked upon and created by tutors earlier will be built up bottoms up so that the logic could be explained. This way it allowed the students to see architectural geometries being built parallel along with creation of the code.

The basic readiness for the experimental studio had to be done. While building up the experimental studio various stages of design resolution was analysed and the first step of the role of precedent study was marked as an intervening step. This being the first steps towards developing a design thought was considered the right point of intervention towards nudging students to use computational tool to generate design ideas.

The development of referent models according to the digital pedagogy research was taken up by the tutors in the annual break before the semester commenced, the design brief was aligned so that it would have scope for form experimentation.

Development of Exemplars and Referents by tutors

This studio thus used referent model in its algorithmic form as it aligns with the dual model and may allow dual cognition as stated above. These referents were introduced in the digital studio in the form of algorithmic models. They were based on precedent studies and were divided into various models depending upon the class of implicit information that they contained.

The referent models were developed by teachers from a selected class of precedents that align to various learning objectives that are in tandem with the design brief of designing an 'Urban sports and community hybrid'. These referent models were modelled before and by the tutor team as a preparatory material. With the decision on introducing the design brief based on Urban Sports hybrid now made the researcher started categorizing and making presentation of precedents. This was to mine available resources from the internet. With references of built and proposed sports and civic centre projects, the researcher categorized it in various verticals namely.

1)Built form and structure of large span sports centre

Here various attributes as decided by the tutor team were introduced

- Sports centre as a large span structure
- Its plurality as a civic space
- Its built form
- And techniques used to achieve a built form.
- How large span sports structure also can be humanized and related to the user scale

2) Material configurations and structural consideration in making a large span sports structure

- How conventional material like brick and Concrete are used in making large span sports structure, in standard and non standard forms
- Pioneering work on sustainable spaces as built spaces for sports centre
- Use of engineered wood in making sports centers
- Use of waffle systems in making nonstandard built forms for sports centre

3) Façade and fenestration in Large span sports structure

- How climatic control is achieved in sports centre
- How daylight is effectively used in sports centre
- Dynamic Fenestrations and its integration with built form
- Weatherproofing large span sports structure

4) Landform development: - Since the site was sloping a presentation of precedents that catered to dichotomous relationship between landscape and built-form

- How sloping sites can be used to humanize the exterior of a large civic building.
- How landscape and built form can be used to control unfavourable weather parameters
 - Understanding the climatic response of earth berming and creation of landforms,
- Built form as a landscape(landform) , prompting plural use of designed artefacts

The preparatory time needed for the presentation by the researcher was around 10 days, out of which around 25 working hours were spent for the initial mining of precedents, around 10 hours were spent with the Digital tutor's team where the formal composition of the precedent study was understood as a design system. So, a total of around 35 working hours were spent on selection of precedent study, making crisp formal presentations, and enlisting potential formal precedents for further generating referent models in grasshopper.

In the referent model generation phase, which was a preparatory phase for the proposed studio later, the team worked on the following process.

- Explication of specific characteristics of a precedent study, various elements of the precedent study and its ascertaining underlying dependency of the built form wrt to attributes
- Isolate its characteristic termed as inheritance, understand its specific attribute.
- Develop a computational precedent in ways that referent models don't lose their inheritance.
- Review the first generations of referent model, check for its generative capacity to allow transformations.
- Simplify, cluster, so that the interface is convenient to users.

The referent models thus were checked for the Visual, procedural, and conceptual attributes as prescribed by researchers of digital pedagogy.

The referent model thus created via various grasshopper scripts had inherited generative attribute that allowed various transformation wrt its variant parameters. The hope was that students will use the referent model to create plural forms/alternatives and that they may be able to change some attributes to suit their design aspiration via changing sliders. This helped the tutors in clearly aligning the capabilities of the model definition with a specific learning objective. The pre-modelling phase was an interesting exercise for the mentors and her extended team as it gave them a pedagogical canvas that allowed the teachers to anticipate students' questions, rephrase the definition and make it more interactive as a medium. This library of referent modules was made by the Ar. Dhanashree Sardeshpande, Ar. Kaushik Sardesai, ar. Supriya Dhamale and Ar. Amar Shetty. This was a developmental phase which consumed a time span of 24 days wherein roughly 75 to 80 hours cumulatively were put in by different teachers to develop the referents. With the body of referents developed, the potentials were once again ascertained and now the learning objectives had to be aligned to suit the tool affordances. The key to that was creation of learning objectives that bridge design aspiration at various stages to the affordances of the digital medium.

Concept board and section of the Madeline Columbia sports centre

Other than the attributes explained by the designing architects, the precedent was seen as an example that allowed to articulate large sports structural volumes efficiently using the strip patterns. The strip pattern now became a geometrical system and a inherent characteristic. It was modulated via grasshopper script to enclose variable volumes that could be controlled through sliders
The first version of script allowed the tutor group to develop a pattern of developable strips that mirrored the concept

Two different Grasshopper scripts allowed further variation of the referent models giving specific controls to make variations in the strip topology

The strip topology script was further edited to accommodate the response of sun direction and allowing shielding from sun and also allowed variations of footprint that could be set as per the designers wish to generate options.

Thus every referent model underwent changes and produced plural scripts each uniquely preserving the inherent character of the precedent yet avoiding mimicking in the same way that it was originally created.

Here the corresponding responsive façade script plugs in the weather data of a specific city (Pune as a site) and produced innumerable iterations of the louvre strip that recedes in areas receiving less sunlight and vice versa on variety of footprints, here rectangular and circular footprints are tried for demonstration.

The above precedents became exemplars to develop a topology of prismatic forms which was incrementally developed into a sophisticated algorithmic script that produced prismatic forms allowing them to respond to sun. The script developed forms that would cantilever prismatically in the direction of choice to facilitate setting up of the sun path according to site orientation.

The prismatic form and the script on RHS allow modulating the sun's direction and respond by allowing a range of cantilevers on the heat receiving directions of the form and can be instantiated to many footprints or platforms.

Thus, Grasshopper scripts were made and were also later developed as per inputs of various students based on their form aspirations

A Total of 5 definitions with their variants then were modelled in due course of conduction of the experimental studio a total of 16 definitions were iteratively developed according to the students' aspirations and introduced as per the schedule of the workshop

- 2 algorithmic scripts: - for Slope analysis and road formation according to slope on a sloping site
- 3 scripts for strip morphology
- 4 Scripts of kangaroo physics simulation for form finding of compressive and tensile structures

- 2 scripts for dynamic and responsive fenestration design
- 1 script for responsive prismatic forms
- 4 various scripts for shell structures

Learning outcomes for the value added course

Learning outcomes were framed on the basis of research of creativity in architectural pedagogy and digital architecture pedagogy

Abundance (generate a large volume of ideas)

- Generation of design alternatives, the generation of ideas were to be quantitatively measured population. This was to be an indicator of The ideation fluency can be measured with the number of options generated after the concept generation phase.

Flexibility (have a variety in the ideas) & originality (go out of the common)

- Ideation flexibility (Variety between ideas), After the precedent study students work will be analyzed for the qualitative diversity of prototype. This was assessed by likeliness between source and target.

Advancement of design ideas

- Display structural integrity
- Amalgamation of built form with landscape
- Humanizing large span architectural forms

Conduction:

The experimental studio was conducted for 16 sessions, every Friday from 2.30 PM/3Pm till 5.30 Pm /6pm depending upon the student occupancy in the DA classroom with one tutor instructing and the other assisting as explained in the schedule . Normally the tutor who has developed the script would lead by teaching and the other would assist accordingly. The assistant teacher had to ensure troubleshooting of individual student interface

So, a lot of time was gone in setting up their evaluation version of Rhino 7 and teaching them basic skills. in all 4/5 modules were attributed to teaching Rhino as a 3d modelling tool, 12 sessions went in introducing grasshopper referent models and 4 sessions went in troubleshooting the students' queries

COURSE NAME:

Foundation Training Program on Geographic Information System for Landscape Architects

COURSE CODE: BNCA_202223_05

BNCA CO-ORDINATOR: Anupama Khatavkar

NAME OF THE RESOURCE PERSON: Dr. Nikhil Shejwalkar

RESOURCE PERSON POST AND ORGANIZATION: Visiting Faculty, Department of Landscape Architecture, BNCA

DATES: Jan 2023 – April 2023

TIMING: 10.00am to 12.00pm

VENUE: Classroom 402

STUDENTS ATTENDED (YEAR/MIX): F.Y. & S.Y. M. Arch (Landscape Architecture)

STUDENT NUMBER: 15

BRIEF ABOUT THE PROGRAM:

The Foundation Training Program on Geographic Information System for Landscape Architects was conducted from January 2023 – April 2023 as a skill building activity – an initiative by 'Landscape Lab'.

OBJECTIVES:

- Theory and Practical based program – resulting in its application in landscape design studio.
- Designed for use in the field of landscape architecture.
- Awareness creation about importance of GIS as a globally used soft skill.

STUDENTS ATTENDED (YEAR/MIX): 2nd -4th year B. Arch Students

STUDENT NUMBER: 31

BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRAM:

Duration in Hours: 30 hrs including assessment.

Duration in Weeks: 14 weeks (1.5 hrs per week)

Tutor (only one name): Prof. P. N. Joshi

Course Objectives:

1. Promoting liking of sketching in the Aspirants, with the help of various mediums to acquire proficiency in their presentations, drawings, in Academics and Profession
2. To impart deep knowledge in the subject in Theory and Practical by lectures and demonstrations.
3. Practise sessions by aspirants
4. Advantageous skills required in some academic subjects, in examinations and profession.

How does this course add value to the students' learning?

1. Ability to do rapid sketching wherever required.
2. Developing the skills to do quick but effective sketches in academic subjects like AGD, BCM, history, and services.
3. Boosting the confidence during VIVAS
4. Impressing clients and other consultants related to building activity
5. Confident behaviours in the society – a skill required of an Architect.

STUDENTS ATTENDED (YEAR/MIX): 3rd-5th year B. Arch Students

STUDENT NUMBER: 270

BRIEF OUTLINE OF THE PROGRAM:

Duration in Hours: 30 hrs including assessment.

Duration in Weeks: 14 weeks (1.5 hrs per week)

Tutor (only one name): Ar. Aniruddha Kolhatkar

Course Objectives:

1. To acquaint the students with various legal documents required to get plans approved from local authority
2. To acquaint the students with basic building bye laws as per UDCPR
3. Introduction to process of plan approval. Check list of various steps in the process
4. Practical application of UDCPR with examples

Any Prerequisites: None

How does this course add value to the students' learning?

The students passing out from the college have been trained for various subjects which are required for the profession. However, there is a big gap between theoretical knowledge and what is practised in the profession. This program has been designed with a view to bridge this gap and make the students ready for the profession. This will not only improve their employability but also make them more professional and able to handle the challenges they face in Architectural practice.

ARCHITECT'S TRAINING PROGRAMME 2023

When Architectural students pass out from college, they have been trained for various subjects like design, technical subjects such as construction, building services etc. But even then they are not trained for practical aspects of profession. Hence this course is designed to hone the skills of the fresh Architect so that he can be absorbed into the building Industry. This will increase his prospects of getting a good job or for starting his own practice.

The course has been designed in parts which are as follows
Introduction to documents required to get building permission
Introduction to UDCPR (unified development control rules)
Introduction to process of Tendering including preparing tender documents, tender drawings etc.
Introduction to site work including site supervision, bill checking, site meetings, etc.

STUDENTS FEEDBACK SUMMERY

Audit Course Report 1

Fourth Year Division B

Topic – Right to Information Act (RTI Act)

Faculty – Prof. Gauri Joshi

Date and Time: 16th March 2023, 3:00 pm – 4:00 pm

In this lecture, we learned about the laws, its significance and its usage and brushing up on the basics of civics learned in the previous years. The lecture started with an in-depth discussion over the previously learned laws and its types and it was followed by understanding the difference between few important terminologies such as Byelaws, Acts and Guidelines and how different they are from one another.

Difference between Rules and Laws:

Rules are personal in nature, and they are often adjusted as the conditions and circumstances change. Laws must be passed through due process in order to take effect.

We also learned the four sets of administration through various real life examples which made it easy for us to understand.

The four sets of laws are as follows:

- > Sub standard law and procedure law.
- > Civil law and criminal law
- > Public law and private law
- > National and international law

We also discussed about the constitution in detail and at the end of the lecture it was quite clear that all laws are not a part and parcel of the constitution, they are independent, and it must be in the accordance of the principles of the constitution.

Audit Course Report 2

Fourth Year Division B

Topic – Fundamental Rights

Faculty – Prof. Gauri Joshi

Date and Time: 6th April 2023, 3:00 pm – 4:00 pm

In this lecture, we discussed the human rights, fundamental rights, constitutional rights, and statutory rights. Rights and Responsibility go hand in hand.

> Human rights:

- These are the most basic rights and are internationally acceptable

> Fundamental rights:

- No Human Being is a slave of the another
- One can delegate rights but to avoid someone to regulate someone else, some rights are reserved for ourselves and are called fundamental rights.
- These rights include the Right to life, Right to equality etc.
- Article 14: Right to Equality.
- Article 19: Freedom and Liberty of Speech and Expression.
- Right to Information is also a fundamental right.
- The right asks the authorities to mandatorily release environmental report of an area.
- Article 21: Right to Life.
- Life – this right includes the right to potable water, education, shelter, etc
- Writ (Royal Prerogative) Jurisdiction – Right to go to higher courts in case certain rights are denied.
- Public interest litigations allows one to submit pension in behalf of someone else
- > Statutory Rights

Audit Course Report 3

Fourth Year Division B

Topic – Right to go to Supreme Court

Faculty – Prof. Gauri Joshi

Date and Time: 18th April 2023, 3:00 pm – 4:00 pm

Article 32 – Right to go to Supreme Court

(Locus Standi) – Right is violated, the citizen can go to the supreme court

Right to Information:

What is information: Any material in any form, includes records, documents, memos, emails, opinions, advices, press releases, circulars, orders etc. Future opinion can not be asked for.

Any information relating to any private body in any form which can be accessed by a public authority under any other law for the time being in force is under the act

Public Authority: Any authority or body or institution of self government established or constituted by or under the constitution

Or by any other law made by the Parliament

Or by a state legislature

Or by notification issued

Or order made by Central Government or State Government

Transparency: Transparency of information is essential for demanding accountability.

Historic Documents:

1766- Sweden adopted worlds first access to information law

1789- France's declaration of Human and Civic Rights

Aarhus Convention Denmark, 1998 – Convention on Access to Information.

Audit Course Report 4

Fourth Year Division B

Topic – Provisional of RTI Act

Faculty – Prof. Gauri Joshi

Date and Time: 26th April 2023, 3:00 pm – 4:00 pm

In this lecture we learned about the Provisions of the Right To Information Act (RTI). The lecture initiated with a detailed explanation about the most important provision and detailed explanation public authority and all the rights it includes under it such as

Right to:

- Inspection of work, documents, records
- Taking notes, extracts or certified copies of documents or records
- Taking certified samples of materials
- Obtaining information in the form of diskettes, floppies, tapes, video cassettes etc.

Followed by the right we also learned about the hierarchy under the chief information commissioner and their way of working.

We briefly learned about the online application filling process which is as follows.

- Visit://rtionline.gov.in
- Create account to track application status
- Click "submit request" and read the guidelines
- Fill RTI application request form and select department accordingly.
